Ex-Governor Says Bricker
Appropriating More Than Democrats Did

LIMA, June 20—The question of whether Martin L. Davey will run for governor next year was left unanswered today but Davey, speaking in Lima last night, cut loose with a blistering denunciation of Gov. John W. Bricker and his Republican administration.

"I am not a candidate for anything — not now," the former Democratic governor told an audience of several hundred Democrats and then he branded Bricker as the "most superficial figure I ever saw in public life."

Davey particularly attacked Bricker's economy moves, charged that wholesale firings in the highway and other departments were not in the name of economy but politics.

"Last Winter," Davey asserted, "he (Bricker) made a grandstand play and fired 2,000 employees. He tried to create the impression he was doing it for economy. But the real reason was because they were Democrats. And yet he appropriated $2,450,000 more for employees' salaries than we spent."

Davey said that contrary to Republican charges of a deficit, the Democrats left "a $3,000,000 cash surplus in the bank. This fellow," he added, "has appropriated"

Wisconsin Sheriff
Says Fugitive
Identified

F. B. I. JOINS HUNT

Ray Olson Escapes
Traps Set After Two Are Slain

HAYWARD, Wis., June 20 — Ray Olson, sharpshooting killer of two sheriff's deputies, has been "positively identified" as the kidnap slayer of 10-year-old Charles Mattson, it was announced today by Sheriff George Seehueter, who for three days has led a 400-man posse through the wilds of northern Wisconsin in a grim hunt for the murderer.

Sheriff Seehueter's statement was made before he led his men once more into the fastnesses of the Big Moose Lake country 40 miles east of Hayward after Olson for the third day had eluded his heavily armed pursuers by laying an elaborately false trail through the forest.

(Background note: the kidnap slaying of Charley Mattson was one of the most brutal in American criminal history. The boy was seized Dec. 27, 1936, in the home of his father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, at Tacoma, Wash., as he was playing with his Christmas toys. The kidnaper stole into the house, seized Charles while his brother and sister, William, 16, and Murdell, 14, and a neighbor girl, watched in horror, and dragged the boy out of the house. The kidnaper demanded $28,000 ransom but before contact could be made Charles' cruelly beaten body was found the following January 11, in a ditch near Everett, Wash. Hunt for the murderer has continued ever since.)

"Know He Is Man"

"It has been definitely established that Olson is the Mattson kidnaper," declared Sheriff Seehueter. "His facial markings are identical and he has been positively identified. Prior to identification we established that he was on the West coast at the time of the kidnapping. Now we know he is the man."

Asked who identified Olson as the Mattson kidnaper, Seehueter replied: "I can't answer that. The matter is no longer in my hands." This statement was taken to mean that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had entered the case.

At the same time District Attorney J. C. Davis announced that Olson also was sought on a murder charge in Michigan City, Ind., but the official refused to name the murdered man or give any details of the case.

As the charges against Olson piled up, authorities quickly dropped their first idea that he merely was a small time thief gone berserk. He first was sought only on a petty larceny charge but escaped and stole an auto. Seized on Thursday in the stolen car, Olson again made good his escape although his wife Frances, 20, was arrested and awaits prosecution in Hayward.

All Traps Evaded

A posse of nine on Saturday trapped Olson in a shack but again he fled, after killing two of the possemen, Carl Johnson and Fred Scott, with blasts from a shotgun. Throughout Saturday, Sunday and Monday the search for (Continued on Page Two)

The accident occurred when a tire blew out on their machine and it swerved over a bank, landing with the wheels in the air.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY TO OBTAIN MILLIONS TO FIGHT ALL 'ISMS'

NEW YORK, June 20—A nationwide campaign to raise a $5,000,000 war chest to combat propaganda of Nazi, Fascist and Communist groups in this country was being organized today by the Friend of Democracy, Inc., a group which began as a local movement in Kansas City in 1937.

L. M. Birkhead, of Kansas City, national director, described the campaign as a "now or never" movement to preserve Americanism. All media of communication, newspapers, radio, motion pictures and printed material, will be utilized, Birkhead said.

WASHINGTON, June 20 — Nearing a June 30 deadline, the senate's two big fiscal committees started consideration of tax and relief legislation today with prospects of a sharp battle over the $1,735,000,000 relief appropriation, and comparatively easy sailing for the business-aid tax program passed by the house.

VETERAN JUDGE IN APPEAL FOR JURY REVERSAL

NEW YORK, June 20—In a shaking voice that was close to cracking, and in the very courtroom where he dealt out prison to hundreds as the "tenth old man" of American jurisprudence, silver-haired Martin T. Manton today pleaded that he be spared from jail himself.

With his eyes fixed on the American flag he was convicted of besmirching by selling his decisions to the highest bidder, the former head of the Circuit Court of Appeals, personally asked Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut to set the jury's verdict aside.

The courtroom was tense as Manton, his ruddy face grim and his voice slow and trembling, arose to make his plea. Manton has indicated that he will carry his appeal into the U. S. Supreme Court if his plea for reversal fails. Prosecutor John Cahill is expected to ask leniency for William J. Fallon, alleged "bag man" for Manton; John L. Lotach, former Brooklyn Banker and Forrest Davis, all of whom pleaded guilty to conspiracy. The trio were of inestimable assistance to the government in convicting Manton.

PARKERS HOPING FOR F. D. R. AID TO EVADE CELLS

TRENTON, N. J., June 20 — Ellis Parker, Sr., the once famous country detective, and his son were still hopeful today that a presidential pardon will yet spare them from serving federal penitentiary sentences for kidnaping Paul H. Wendel and extracting from him a false confession to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Unless the President intervenes, they must report to the U. S. marshal at Ironton Friday to begin their terms.

1,300 YOUNG PHEASANTS DROWN IN HIGH WATER

COLUMBUS, June 20 — More than 1,300 young pheasants drowned at the Urbana Pheasant Farm in recent high waters which swept the area, the state conservation division reported today.

The loss was reported by Tom Nash, superintendent of the farm, who said the 1,300 birds were part of a batch of 3,000 that had been liberated in a field near the farm.

British May Move Many Women, Children From Stricken City

TOKYO, June 20 — On the heels of two stern American protests over Japan's "incredible" activities in China, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita called on Emperor Hirohito at the imperial palace today, foreshadowing some major move in the Far East's latest crisis.

Advice and counsel of the emperor is sought only when the government is about to embark on a decisive move. It was assumed that Arita was ready to inform the emperor whether or not the civilian government of Japan is prepared to support fully the army's demand for liquidation of British interests in China unless Britain abandons its alleged "pro-Chiang Kai-Shek attitude."

TIENTSIN, June 20—Embattled behind barriers including electrified wire, guns, and the equally restraining risk of "indignities" at the hands of Japanese searchers, 150,000 residents of the French and British concession in Tientsin today faced a complete lack of fresh foodstuffs within a day or two.

There also was the danger of a water shortage, with sources of supply controlled by Japanese outside the concession, and even the peril of pestilence if the Chinese who form the majority of the concessions' inhabitants are forced to use contaminated water.

British, American, and French consular officials here were expected to lose no time today in protesting to the Japanese consulate general against charging of the 30 miles of barbed wire surrounding the foreign zones.

Move Made Against Chinese

Japanese military authorities sent 220 volts crackling into the wires — enough to fell a man, if not to kill him. The objective of the Japanese action was to keep Chinese vegetable producers from trying to make their way into the British sector, and today Japan took still further measures to prevent replenishment of the rapidly dwindling fresh food supply.

U. S. GUARDSMEN TOLD OF PLANE CRASH IN BRAZIL

MOBILE, Ala., June 20 — The U. S. coast guard station in Mobile today announced it had intercepted a relayed message broadcast by the government hydrographic service at Balboa, Canal Zone, reporting that a plane was down 150 miles north-northwest of Caubate, Brazil, with two persons dead and two others dying. Immediate assistance was asked.

The original message was reported received by Fort De Lesseps from an amateur station.

FAIR ATTENDANCE UP, SO ARE GIRL TROUBLES

NEW YORK, June 20 — Attendance at the New York World's Fair is on the upgrade and so were troubles in the amusement area today.

Two undraped show girls were hauled off to jail last night on charges of indecent exposure and two concessionaires were arrested on charges of permitting them to appear.

The raids followed soon after Rev. George Drew Egbert, president of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, charged he had witnessed what he described as "iniquity that a decent man can not even imagine" on a visit to the amusement area's play spots.

Tragic Tale Of Father's Day

FATHER'S DAY has passed but its tragic memories linger on for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crowley, Sr., of Pittsburgh. Charles, Jr., 7, honored his father by writing him a note which ended with: "I thank God for giving me the best mother and daddy in the world. God bless you." The note told of offering mass and Communion and a special novena "so that I will be a good boy." Shortly after writing the note, Charles ran in front of an automobile and was killed instantly. The grief-stricken parents are pictured reading the note.

Ohioans To Vote On Gas Tax Diversion

COLUMBUS, June 20—Formation of an organization to attempt to place on the November election ballot a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution to prohibit diversion of motor vehicle and gasoline taxes for poor relief reached completion today.

Louis J. Taber, Columbus, master of the National Grange, was named president and former Governor George White, Marietta, was elected vice president of the organization to be known as the Ohio Council of Road and Street Agencies.

G. F. Rudisill, Columbus, is secretary and Perry Ford, Columbus, will direct the campaign.

The proposed amendment states that it would "require that all revenues from motor vehicles taxes shall be for the improvement, maintenance and repair of state, county and township roads and municipal streets, for operation of traffic thereon, and for administration of laws thereto."

The amendment would prohibit general assemblies or courts from diverting or transferring any part of such funds to any other purpose.

The 83rd general assembly enacted a law diverting such taxes for the purpose of allowing subdivisions to match poor relief monies put up by the state. The amendment would go into effect April 15, 1941.

400 ROSS COUNTY W. P. A. MEN IDLE AS JOBS CLOSE

CHILLICOTHE, June 20 — About 400 Ross county men face a week or 10 days of idleness because two road projects under W. P. A. have been completed and no new projects are ready to open.

A Potts Hill improvement has been approved by the district office and is awaiting approval of the state office. This project, if approved, will absorb about 235 men in July.

J. L. Kelly, of Columbus, district director of W. P. A., declared the county has plenty of work remaining under a blanket road project accepted some time ago. When specifications can be submitted and accepted the schedule will be resumed, he said.

MARYSVILLE, June 20 — The key used to unlock her cell was slipped under the door to a confederate, Leonora Leach, 29, by Velma West, blond hammer slayer, an inmate of Marysville woman's reformatory who witnessed the escape admitted today to Superintendent Marguerite Reiley after spending two hours in the dungeon.

Meanwhile, the most tangible clue to the whereabouts of any of the four women prisoners who escaped early yesterday was telephoned to the reformatory by Capt. O. L. Kincaid of the Dayton police.

He said that Florence Shelton, one of the fugitives, had been seen in Dayton, wearing the pink print dress belonging to Mrs. West and brown shoes of Virginia Brawdy, Akron, who also escaped. She apparently had hitch-hiked to Dayton where she was let out of an auto by an unidentified motorist.

MARYSVILLE, June 20—Search for Painesville's blond hammer murderess, Velma West, 33, and three women companions who escaped from Marysville Reformatory for Women, swung to Indian Lake today.

Reformatory officials recalled that girls had been transported before to the Logan county resort after walking away from the institution.

Mrs. Marguerite Reiley, superintendent evinced deep concern for Mrs. West's physical condition and told newsmen that it was doubtful she was traveling alone because of a bad heart and sinus condition.

The superintendent recalled that a relative of an inmate had once driven five women who had walked away from the reformatory to a cottage at Indian Lake where they were found a few days later.

Patrol Centers Search

Highway patrolmen were immediately notified and search for the four women, who fled from their cells before dawn yesterday, centered on the Logan county resort.

"Velma and Virginia Brawdy (one of the escaped women) were good friends in the institution and it is possible they will be found together," Mrs. Reiley said.

Meanwhile, she continued questioning of inmates in an effort to learn whether any of them had unlocked the cell doors of the quarter.

All privileges were removed as the investigation proceeded. None of the inmates is allowed to wear print honor dresses, beauty shop operators have had their white dresses taken away and girls who work in the hospital have been forbidden to leave the building wearing their white aprons.

Questioning Goes On

Twelve girls underwent a grilling by Mrs. Reiley last night and she planned to question several more this morning.

LEAH BROWN, FORMERLY OF CIRCLEVILLE, DEAD

Mrs. Leah Brown, sister of the late Mrs. George Bennett of Circleville, died Monday at her home, 151 N. High street, Chillicothe. Mrs. Brown, a former resident of Circleville, was the widow of P. W. Brown and a daughter of Abel and Catherine Dresbach Jones. Mrs. Brown was active in church work in Chillicothe.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Taylor Boggs, Chillicothe, and Mrs. Harry H. Gregg, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 10 a. m. Wednesday with burial in Forest cemetery, Circleville. Brief services will be held at the grave.

NEW SPILLWAYS IN USE ON ROUTE 22 PROJECT

New spillways on the Route 22 improvement, west of Circleville, were in use Tuesday for flood waters of the Scioto river. Only work under way on the project Tuesday was construction of forms for bridge work. All equipment was moved from the lowlands before the arrival of the flood waters. Officials said the flood waters will cause no damage on the project.

some dairy products and vegetables managed to be literally smuggled into the beleaguered foreign zones, but such products commanded prices as high as ten times normal.

Numerous new reports arose saying Japanese sentries were killing any Chinese caught trying to take food into the British concession, but these could not be verified officially.

Because of the food and threatened water shortage and an unrelenting heat wave, plans were made to remove many British women and children today to Peitaiho and Chingwangtao, cooler resorts northward on the coast.

Admiral Yarnell Due America's yacht-like destroyer Isabel was due to steam up the Tai river to Tientsin today. Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, who arrived here yesterday on what was planned as a routine inspection tour, is expected to play a large part in using America's "good offices" to localize the Tientsin crisis.

Within 250 miles' sailing distance of Tientsin, eight United States naval ships carrying 2,000 officers and men arrived overnight at Chefoo, on the Shantung peninsula. They were given an enthusiastic welcome by Japanese at Chefoo, who saw sources of revenue in the sailors, but Admiral Yarnell restricted shore leaves for the present.

(Washington advices said the destroyers Paul Jones, Bulmer, Edsall, Parrott, and Stewart, the destroyer tender Black Hawk, and the oiler Pecos were at Chefoo, and the cruiser Augusta and mine sweeper Bittern were due there today or tomorrow.)

Today brought no untoward incidents in Tientsin, as the British tried to arrange for ships to take to Chingwangtao and Peitaiho who wish to evacuate Tientsin.

CHICAGO LOTHARIO GIVES FRIEND PRACTICAL GIFTS

CHICAGO, June 20.—When Michael F. Kay tries to help along a romance with gifts, he does it in a practical manner, it was revealed today in a suit Kay filed in superior court.

Kay, a sheet metal worker of Kankakee, Ill., seeks $3,000 from Mrs. Pearl Brown, operator of a Chicago beauty parlor and a divorcee. Most of the money he spent on Mrs. Brown during a courtship which ended by her refusal to marry him, Kay alleged. Among the gifts he claimed to have given Mrs. Brown, Kay listed such practical items as a washing machine, ironing board, bathtub and sink, gasoline stove, pump, refrigerator, and light bulbs.

TRUCK, AUTO IN CRASH AT RURAL INTERSECTION

No one was hurt, Tuesday, when a truck and auto collided at the intersection of Route 104 and the Goosepond pike.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell, who investigated the accident, said a car owned by Clark McCalla, Frankfort, Route 1, and driven by Henry A. Miller, 25, of Frankfort Route 1, was involved in a collision with a truck of T. D. Van Camp & Sons, Columbus, driven by Burt Cook, 28, of Ashville Route 2.

The accident happened about 9:30 o'clock.

VELMA, OTHERS MAY BE HIDDEN AT INDIAN LAKE

Marysville Matron Afraid
For Safety Of Hammer
Murderer

Sunday night, the fugitives fled so quietly that no reformatory official knew they were gone until their cells were checked yesterday morning. Three separate doors had to be unlocked to enable Mrs. West to flee.

One of the prisoners closely questioned by Superintendent Reiley was a girl who previously had been caught making keys from articles used in the reformatory kitchen.

In her 3-page note to Mrs. Reiley the Painesville, O., husband slayer carefully avoided leaving a clue to the manner of her escape.

Throughout the night the state highway patrol was kept busy running down "tips" that Velma and her companions were sighted at one point or another, but none of these yielded a genuine clue.

Those who escaped with her were Virginia Brawdy, 19, Akron, sentenced for incorrigibility; Florence Sheline, 23, Gallipolis, breaking and entering, and Mary Ellen Richards, 23, Cincinnati, robbery.

Mrs. West, 21 when she, bashed in the head of her husband, Thomas Edward West, with a hammer and table legs in their home near Painesville, is now 33.

Her crime was so revolting that, rather than give publicity to the sordid details at a court trial, the state accepted a plea of guilty to a second degree murder charge and the slayer with a "split personality," as psychiatrists described her, received a life sentence.

Photograph Presented Superintendent Reiley had regarded Velma as a model prisoner. In the slayer's deserted cell was a photograph of Mrs. Reiley with the inscription—"To Velma West, the girl who made good."

Refusal of the state parole board to consider her for parole was said to have weighed heavily on the slayer lately. She was also suffering from a serious heart ailment, which she feared might cause her death momentarily.

Her mental state was revealed in the "goodbye" note to Mrs. Reiley in which she wrote:

"I wonder if you can forgive me for this—I am doing it for several reasons—because I must have one little adventure in this dull life of mine—because I am so tortured with pain in this body of mine that it drives me almost crazy—because I have lost hope of getting out as I would like to get out—its fears of these things that finally made me do the things that I have been fighting against for many years."

After offering to return to the institution "if this should in any way cause you trouble," Velma concluded the note to Mrs. Reiley with her own appraisal of herself:

"I'm not bad—just frightfully unlucky—in life."

Besides the letter left by Velma, authorities had not a single clue as to how the escape was perpetrated. Mrs. Reiley, who was enroute to Cleveland when the escape was discovered, returned late yesterday afternoon.

After questioning two or three girls, Mrs. Reiley expressed the belief that one of them "was not telling the truth."

She apparently referred to Lenora Leach, 26, of Gallipolis, O., who Mrs. Reiley said slept in the corridor next to Mrs. West's cell. The reformatory superintendent agreed with other officials that the escape was "an inside job."

Only Mrs. West's pathetic note,

tion of relief funds and $544,000,000 in nuisance and excise taxes June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Legislation expanding benefits of the Social Security program and effecting a saving of millions of dollars to employers through retention of the current payroll taxes was momentarily shunted aside by the senate finance committee for consideration of the tax bill. Chairman Harrison predicted completion of the tax bill within three days.

He said it will be reported to the senate in substantially its present form. John Hanes, undersecretary of the treasury, will be the first witness before the committee.

Principal features of the measure wipe out the undistributed profits tax at the end of the year and substitute an 18 percent flat corporation income tax on all corporations earning over $25,000 a year, reenacts $1,000,000,000 in corporation taxes, continues three cent postage at an annual gain of $100,000,000, and the $544,000,000 in nuisance and excise taxes.

written in her own handwriting, gave any clue to the escape.

Heard of Plot

"Don't blame the other girls," she wrote, "I found out by accident that they were going and I asked them to take me. They didn't want to because of my health, but finally decided to and promised to take care of me and not subject me to anything immoral."

"That may be for them—but never for me, dear."

A pink dress was missing from the Cleveland slayer's wardrobe and officials expressed belief she had taken this along and changed from reformatory garb after the escape. The other girls were believed to be wearing slacks.

Mrs. West was described as 33 years old, five feet, five inches tall, weight about 100 pounds, light brown hair and azure eyes. Her physical condition was said to be "very poor."

Search was being conducted today for a Columbus man whom one of the girls is known to have associated with before her imprisonment.

Herbert Mooney, assistant state welfare director who went immediately to the reformatory, was convinced that Velma and her companions had keys to their cells.

Others Make Getaways

The Marysville reformatory houses 275 inmates. Two girls escaped several months ago and have not been apprehended. Yesterday's escape was the second break since Mrs. Reiley has been superintendent.

the killer continued through the lake-spotted Chippewa flowage country, but Olson escaped every trap.

By strategic placing of his men, Sheriff Seehueter had hoped to starve out Olson, but yesterday this plan was spoiled when the desperate killer stole into the town from Moose Lake and stocked up from the general store, obtaining food and supplies.

Several times yesterday the hunters believed they had cornered their quarry in deserted shacks and peppered the shacks with bullets and tear gas bombs, but each time Olson somehow disappeared.

The theory was considered today that Olson had finally escaped from the lake country by automobile, although this seemed a remote possibility. Sheriff Seehueter hoped, however, that Olson still was in the district and every effort was to be made to capture him.

"We have sent out a statewide alarm to pick up this man on sight," the sheriff declared. "We want him dead or alive. We are convinced that he'll not be taken alive. Meanwhile, of course, a nationwide stop order has been issued on the Mattson kidnap charge."

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today instructed its agents in Milwaukee to make a full report on the announcement of Sheriff George Seehueter, at Hayward, Wis., that the Fugitive Ray Olson has been identified as the kidnap slayer of Charles Mattson, 10.

The F. B. I. does not expect to receive a full report from its Milwaukee office until later in the day.

Olson is being sought in connection with the slaying of two sheriff's deputies.

MOTOR TROUBLE REPORTED ON SUB BEFORE TRAGEDY

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 20

—Main motor bearing trouble on the submarine Squalus more than a month before she took a fatal crash dive with a loss of 26 lives on May 23 was revealed today by Lieutenant Commander Oliver F. Naquin before a naval board of inquiry.

Naquin was commander of the Squalus from which 33 men were rescued as the submarine lay in 243 feet of water about 12 miles off Portsmouth's coastline.

Previous testimony, however, indicated that the disaster may have been caused by the failure of a 31-inch induction valve used for ventilation purposes to close.

In the role of defendant before the naval court because he is technically responsible for the tragedy until responsibility is placed elsewhere, the skipper of the undersea craft told how on April 20, during a builders' trial dive off Portsmouth, the main motor bearing developed trouble while they were submerging by the step-by-step method. He did not elaborate but said that the Squalus was taken back to Portsmouth navy yard for repairs.

Details of the Squalus sinking had been fixed in the minds of the four members of the inquiring board by reenactment.

The Republican governor was accused by Davey of "grandstanding" about "selling a state owned automobile and yet he appropriated $372,000 more for motor vehicles than we did."

Bricker's presidential possibilities were scouted by Davey who devoted a good deal of his speech to "direct personalities."

"I understand that 'Bricker the Ripper' thinks he is presidential material," the former governor said, "he's not bad looking but friends, that's all he has got."

Davey took the credit for inventing the "no new tax" idea and accused Bricker of being "just a copy cat."

TIENTSIN REGION FOOD SHORTAGE GROWS SERIOUS

some dairy products and vegetables managed to be literally smuggled into the beleaguered foreign zones, but such products commanded prices as high as ten times normal.

Numerous new reports arose saying Japanese sentries were killing any Chinese caught trying to take food into the British concession, but these could not be verified officially.

Because of the food and threatened water shortage and an unrelenting heat wave, plans were made to remove many British women and children today to Peitaiho and Chingwangtao, cooler resorts northward on the coast.

Admiral Yarnell Due

America's yacht-like destroyer Isabel was due to steam up the Tai river to Tientsin today. Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, who arrived here yesterday on what was planned as a routine inspection tour, is expected to play a large part in using America's "good offices" to localize the Tientsin crisis.

Within 250 miles' sailing distance of Tientsin, eight United States naval ships carrying 2,000 officers and men arrived overnight at Chefoo, on the Shantung peninsula. They were given an enthusiastic welcome by Japanese at Chefoo, who saw sources of revenue in the sailors, but Admiral Yarnell restricted shore leaves for the present.

(Washington advises said the destroyers Paul Jones, Bulmer, Edsall, Parrott, and Stewart, the destroyer tender Black Hawk, and the oiler Pecos were at Chefoo, and the cruiser Augusta and mine sweeper Bittern were due there today or tomorrow.)

Today brought no untoward incidents in Tientsin, as the British tried to arrange for ships to take to Chingwangtao and Peitaiho who wish to evacuate Tientsin.

tion of relief funds and $544,000,000 in nuisance and excise taxes June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Legislation expanding benefits of the Social Security program and effecting a saving of millions of dollars to employers through retention of the current payroll taxes was momentarily shunted aside by the senate finance committee for consideration of the tax bill. Chairman Harrison predicted completion of the tax bill within three days.

He said it will be reported to the senate in substantially its present form. John Hanes, under-secretary of the treasury, will be the first witness before the committee.

Principal features of the measure wipe out the undistributed profits tax at the end of the year and substitute an 18 percent flat corporation income tax on all corporations earning over $25,000 a year, reenacts $1,000,000,000 in corporation taxes, continues three cent postage at an annual gain of $100,000,000, and the $544,000,000 in nuisance and excise taxes.

written in her own handwriting, gave any clue to the escape.

Heard of Plot

"Don't blame the other girls," she wrote, "I found out by accident that they were going and I asked them to take me. They didn't want to because of my health, but finally decided to and promised to take care of me and not subject me to anything immoral."

"That may be for them — but never for me, dear."

A pink dress was missing from the Cleveland slayer's wardrobe and officials expressed belief she had taken this along and changed from reformatory garb after the escape. The other girls were believed to be wearing slacks.

Mrs. West was described as 33 years old, five feet, five inches tall, weight about 100 pounds, light brown hair and azure eyes. Her physical condition was said to be "very poor."

Search was being conducted today for a Columbus man whom one of the girls is known to have associated with before her imprisonment.

Herbert Mooney, assistant state welfare director who went immediately to the reformatory, was convinced that Velma and her companions had keys to their cells.

Others Make Getaways

The Marysville reformatory houses 275 inmates. Two girls escaped several months ago and have not been apprehended. Yesterday's escape was the second break since Mrs. Reiley has been superintendent.

(the killer continued through the lake-spotted Chippewa flowage country, but Olson escaped every trap.

By strategic placing of his men, Sheriff Seehueter had hoped to starve out Olson, but yesterday this plan was spoiled when the desperate killer stole into the town from Moose Lake and stockaded up from the general store, obtaining food and supplies.

Several times yesterday the hunters believed they had cornered their quarry in deserted shacks and peppered the shacks with bullets and tear gas bombs, but each time Olson somehow disappeared.

The theory was considered today that Olson had finally escaped from the lake country by automobile, although this seemed a remote possibility. Sheriff Seehueter hoped, however, that Olson still was in the district and every effort was to be made to capture him.

"We have sent out a statewide alarm to pick up this man on sight," the sheriff declared. "We want him dead or alive. We are convinced that he'll not be taken alive. Meanwhile, of course, a nationwide stop order has been issued on the Mattson kidnap charge."

WASHINGTON, June 20 — The Federal Bureau of Investigation today instructed its agents in Milwaukee to make a full report on the announcement of Sheriff George Seehueter, at Hayward, Wis., that the fugitive Ray Olson has been identified as the kidnap-slayer of Charles Mattson, 10.

The F. B. I. does not expect to receive a full report from its Milwaukee office until later in the day.

Olson is being sought in connection with the slaying of two sheriff's deputies.

MOTOR TROUBLE REPORTED ON SUB BEFORE TRAGEDY

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 20 —Main motor bearing trouble on the submarine Squalus more than a month before she took a fatal crash dive with a loss of 26 lives on May 23 was revealed today by Lieutenant Commander Oliver F. Naquin before a naval board of inquiry.

Naquin was commander of the Squalus from which 33 men were rescued as the submarine lay in 243 feet of water about 12 miles off Portsmouth's coastline.

Previous testimony, however, indicated that the disaster may have been caused by the failure of a 31-inch induction valve used for ventilation purposes to close.

In the role of defendant before the naval court because he is technically responsible for the tragedy until responsibility is placed elsewhere, the skipper of the undersea craft told how on April 20, during a builders' trial dive off Portsmouth, the main motor bearing developed trouble while they were submerging by the step-by-step method. He did not elaborate but said that the Squalus was taken back to Portsmouth navy yard for repairs.

Details of the Squalus sinking had been fixed in the minds of the four members of the inquiring board by reenactment.

Animals frequently sense the presence of danger before human beings. English pit horses, for instance, are aware of danger before the miners sense it.

AKRON YOUTH ELECTED BOYS' STATE GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, June 20 —Robert Lukens, Akron, today set up his government at the annual Buckeye Boys' State at the State Fairgrounds following his election to the governorship.

Lukens was elected over Henry Canfield, Alliance. Other officers elected were: Marion C. Dietrich, East Cleveland. Lieutenant governor; Wallace Phillips, Columbus, secretary of state; James Y. Snedcor, Toledo, state auditor; Robert J. Fisher, Fremont, state treasurer; Richard E. Smith, Marysville, attorney-general.

The Republican governor was accused by Davey of "grandstanding" about "selling a state owned automobile and yet he appropriated $372,000 more for motor vehicles than we did."

Bricker's presidential possibilities were scouted by Davey who devoted a good deal of his speech to direct personalities.

"I understand that 'Bricker the Ripper' thinks he is presidential material," the former governor said, "he's not bad looking but friends, that's all he has got."

Davey took the credit for inventing the "no new tax" idea and accused Bricker of being "just a copy cat."

Davey is planning further speeches throughout the state. The next address is scheduled for Athens on July 3.

4H CLUB NEWS Activities of Groups in Pickaway County

A field trip along Darby creek was enjoyed by members of the Jackson township 4-H club at a recent meeting. Many interesting birds and insects were seen.

Special reports on the study of birds were assigned to Naomi Hulise and Mary Fischer. Further assignments for the group were to learn to describe a well known bird by its color markings and to complete work on bird houses.

The next meeting will be held Friday, June 30, at 4 p. m. in the township school. Members will go to the Circleville library to study birds. A picnic supper will be served in the evening.

Poles Reject Protest Of Danzig Custom Agents' Behaviors

BERLIN, June 20—Thousands of persons were affected today as Chancellor Hitler decreed an amnesty for offenders in the Bohemian-Moravian protectorate, covering all political crimes except treason directed against the Reich, murders, and dynamiting.

Penalties imposed by the former Czechoslovakian state for activities on behalf of Konrad Henlein's Sudeten party will be wiped off the records.

The Fuehrer's pardon came after a series of incidents in former Czechoslovakia in which one German policeman was killed.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of German police, was sent to Prague last week ostensibly on routine visit, but reportedly to take charge of quelling Czech unrest.

WARSAW, June 20 — Danzig's protest against alleged "provocative behavior" of Polish customs agents today was rejected by the Polish government as "unfounded."

The Danzig protest countered earlier representations by Poland against the beating and arrest of one Polish customs officer and attacks on others.

In Warsaw the opinion is held that a definite campaign of terrorism is under way in Danzig to cut down the number of Polish customs guards in the free city.

Under the Treaty of Versailles, Poland has control of Danzig's customs.

To get an idea of how Paul McNutt is reaching for 1940, cast a glance at Pittsburgh. There, on the 10th, 11th, and 12th of August the Young Democrats will hold their annual convention.

NOTE—The number of delegates attending does not determine the

WAR CLOUDS AGAIN

Tip-off to what is happening in Tientsin, China, is the fact that the Japanese Ambassadors in Rome and Berlin were summoned to the Nazi and Fascist foreign offices three days before the Japanese began to put the squeeze on the French and British.

In other words, the North China showdown is a neat triple play between Japan, Italy and Germany, and is chiefly calculated to remind the British that they will lose their Far Eastern Empire if they don't yield to Hitler in Europe.

It all boils down to the fact that the British fleet cannot be in two places — Europe and the Orient—at the same time. Britain has got to choose between (1) sacrificing her interests in China, or (2) throwing up her guarantees of Poland, Rumania, Greece, etc.

UNLESS — and this is all-important — she gets some Far Eastern cooperation from the United States. This question has been discussed several times between Ambassador Joe Kennedy and Prime Minister Chamberlain. It is also the reason the U. S. fleet left so suddenly for the Pacific before the New York World's Fair opened.

What Roosevelt and Hull actually will do remains to be seen, but there is no doubt whatever about what they would like to do. For they believe that if the Japanese force the British to retreat now, the next retreat will be by the United States. In other words, the British are the first line of American defense.

NOTE — Beneath the surface, war prospects are much worse in Europe than appears in the press. Hitler is getting ready for the mid-Summer showdown previously predicted in this column. That is the reason he is having the Japanese put the squeeze on the British.

Eight Stitches Required To Close Forehead Wound Monday Evening

Mrs. Lulu Buchwalter, 53, of S. Main street, Kingston, was treated in Berger hospital, Monday night, for a cut on the forehead received in an auto accident on N. Court street.

Officers who investigated the accident said the car driven by Morris Buchwalter, 31, her son, also of Kingston, struck a tree. Mr. Buchwalter lost control of the car, they said, when a tire blew out. The accident happened in front of Forest cemetery about 9 o'clock. The Buchwalters were traveling south.

Mrs. Buchwalter was taken to Berger hospital by Deputy Sheriff Robert Armstrong, Dr. E. L. Montgomery said eight stitches were required to close the wound. The son escaped injury. Mrs. Buchwalter was discharged after treatment. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Carl Radcliff.

Officers said Mrs. Buchwalter's head hit the windshield.

Miss Lamour was met at the airport by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Castleberry, of Los Angeles. The fact that Barnet is also residing at the same hotel where she has a suite was merely sheer coincidence, she indicated.

Officers who investigated the accident said the car driven by Morris Buchwalter, 31, her son, also of Kingston, struck a tree. Mr. Buchwalter lost control of the car, they said, when a tire blew out. The accident happened in front of Forest cemetery about 9 o'clock. The Buchwalters were traveling south.

Mrs. Buchwalter was taken to Berger hospital by Deputy Sheriff Robert Armstrong. Dr. E. L. Montgomery said eight stitches were required to close the wound. The son escaped injury. Mrs. Buchwalter was discharged after treatment. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Carl Radcliff.

Officers said Mrs. Buchwalter's head hit the windshield.

DOROTHY LAMOUR DENIES ROMANCE WITH BARNET

NEW YORK, June 20—With a sharply tilted eyebrow, Dorothy Lamour, the actress, today denied all reports that her New York visit was inspired by a romantic interest in Charles Barnet the handsome and wealthy swing leader.

"Romance?" she asked. "I'm not here for romance," she answered, firmly. "This is purely business."

Miss Lamour was met at the airport by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Castleberry, of Los Angeles. The fact that Barnet is also residing at the same hotel where she has a suite was merely sheer coincidence, she indicated.

PEACEFUL REALMS

IT was a pretty good speech that King George made in Halifax, just before he and his queen sailed back home. He was bidding farewell to America and commenting on the good fortune and fine example of this peaceful continent.

"From the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said, "and from the tropics to the Arctic, lies a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors, whose policies are wholly dedicated to the pursuits of peace, a pattern to men of how civilized nations should live together."

"It is good to know that such a region exists, for what man can do once he can do again. By God's grace, yours may yet be the example which all the world will follow."

It seems only fair to reply that England itself has been a pretty good peace-maker in the present century. That country fought many little wars in the course of its colonial expansion, but latterly they have been mostly in the nature of police work, ultimately benefitting the native races themselves. As her empire spread, her grip relaxed, until now she holds sway rather by moral influence and mutual interest than by force.

The British Empire has thus been the greatest power for peace in modern times, as the Roman Empire was in ancient times, with this difference—that Britain's yoke has been lighter and her colonies have been less exploited.

HELP FOR DUNKERS

ONE of the brilliant exhibits at the National Inventors' Congress was what its creator, Mrs. Arthur Basham of Indianapolis, calls "a doughnut with a handle." It is called "the dunker's delight" for obvious reasons.

The secret is in the shape. The doughnut is triangular, and the final twist given to it by the culinary artist makes the upper corner serve as a handle. Thus the dunker—or perhaps we should say the dunkard—can dip the finished doughnut into his coffee without wetting or burning his fingers.

As a connoisseur points out, however, this triumph is not complete, because "when the triangular body of the doughnut has been swallowed, there remains the dry and dusty handle and the question of what to do with it." In a perfect job, surely the sinker should be sunk without a trace. The handle itself should dissolve in the mouth with the rest of the comestible, leaving nothing but a sense of bliss and a yearning for another of the same.

Maybe it could be done with mirrors or magnets. American inventive genius should be able to provide a complete solution for this problem.

You can't fool modern scholars. A University of California professor has discovered that ostriches don't bury their heads in the sand, and porcupines can't shoot their quills, and toads don't give warts to little boys.

When they do it may be safely predicted that the Nipponese will occupy the cellar position. Or they should.

That rustling sound in the country these days is corn growing. And a lot of it is threatened too by flood waters. Hope that doesn't happen. Bill Cady sent a box of 19 fish from the Goulais river, and Earl Betz and John Hummel returned with a score caught in the same waters.

U. S. FUMLED BRAZIL RELATIONS

WASHINGTON—Behind the arrival today of General Goes Monteiro, Brazilian Chief of Staff, is an inside story of State Department blundering in trying to head off Nazi encroachment in Latin America.

It goes back to last Winter's visit of Oswaldo Aranha, Foreign Minister of Brazil, and No. 1 democrat in Latin America. Aranha also is No. 1 friend of the United States in Latin America, and as such he was invited to pay a goodwill trip to the United States. But when the State Department got him here, chief subject discussed was getting Brazil to pay her debts. It was as if Roosevelt had spent all his time with his guest, King George, demanding that England repay her war debts.

Because Aranha was such a staunch friend of the United States, the State Department imposed on his friendship, forced a debt agreement on him.

Brazilians do not see why they should pay their debts if France, Britain, Italy, etc., do not pay theirs, so Foreign Minister Aranha had a tough time when he got home. One opponent was General Monteiro, a blunt-spoken army officer who was planning to accept a German invitation to witness Nazi army maneuvers. So the State Department, worried over its previous policy, moved heaven and earth to bring Monteiro to the United States instead of Germany.

LATE LESSON

This time the State Department has learned a lesson. Because Aranha was such a good friend, the State Department kept him waiting on a Jersey City switchyard for over an hour, brought him on a slow train to Washington, provided him with no aides in making other trips between New York and Washington, did not even help get his baggage from the station in time for him to dress for dinner.

This time, much less friendly General Monteiro has had a special U. S. cruiser sent all the way to Brazil to bring him here. Every hour of his three weeks stay has been mapped out, and he will be flown from city to city by a fleet of flying fortresses.

Moral: In South America it pays to be aloof, or even unfriendly to the United States. Penalty of being a real friend is to be imposed upon by the State Department. No debts will be discussed with General Monteiro.

Good friends personally, the two have strongly divergent political views, Corcoran believing that the Democratic Party must be progressive and virile, Michelson believing that it must travel along relatively old-fashioned lines, a policy which Corcoran believes will doom the party to defeat.

When Thyroid Gland Secretion Diminishes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A WOMAN reader writes me that she is much too heavy for her own good and energy. She eats in spurts for a week or two, and during that time she says she can't seem to get enough to eat. Then for another week she doesn't feel like eating.

She notices also that she oversleeps. "I have two alarm clocks which I never hear. I am constantly late for appointments. Unless someone awakens me violently by shaking me, I sleep 12 or 14 hours."

Her third complaint is that her skin is dry and itches, for which she can find no remedy. "I went to a doctor but he didn't do me any good."

Condition Plain

As I said in answer to this correspondent, I never feel that it is satisfactory to try to make a diagnosis

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

by mail or to prescribe treatment through correspondence, but in this case it seems to me the condition is so plain that a diagnosis may be ventured. The symptoms plainly point to a deficiency in the secretion of the thyroid gland. In fact, it seems to be a full-fledged case of myxedema. There are thousands of such cases going around, and many—too many—of them consult doctors without obtaining a satisfactory opinion.

The condition seems to occur more often in women than in men—4 to 1. It comes on in middle life with an increase in weight and, particularly, a thickness of the skin. To illustrate the sleepiness, one case I saw occurred in a night watchman. He claimed he had been discharged because his employer had lost all his money. As I happened to know that his employer was particularly prosperous, I suspected that perhaps sleeping on the job was the cause of his discharge, and on telephoning the employer found that my surmise was correct.

Get Metabolism Test

What my correspondent should do is to go to a doctor and ask for a basal metabolism test. This test is simple to make and any city in the United States is in close touch with a laboratory which can give the test. It is painless and harmless.

It consists in measuring the amount of oxygen which the patient consumes. Any animal of given weight and given body surface consumes a definite amount of oxygen at rest in a definite period of time, if bodily conditions are normal. The most important organ in disturbing oxygen intake is the thyroid gland. If it begins to increase its secretion, the oxygen consumption goes up. If it begins to decrease its secretion, the oxygen consumption goes down. And it does so in proportion to the extent of the lack or increase of the secretion.

This last fact gives the physician a most valuable guide in the direction of treatment. The treatment of lack of thyroid secretion is naturally to supply it artificially with the administration of thyroid extract. But the patient should never attempt to do this for himself. The doctor, after the proper examination, can give the proper dosage.

EXCELLENT opportunities for expansion and increase of fortune may be predicted from the predominant planetary rulership. A very progressive and productive state of affairs is revealed, although there is some danger from over-aggressive, reckless and impetuous behavior. Contentment, impetuosity and exaggerated emotions may cause excitement, regrets, and self-undoing. Much profit and pleasure depend upon restraint, moderation and good nature.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great progress, prosperity and happiness, especially if they avail themselves of splendid opportunities for growth, expansion and achievement of major importance. They should exercise proper control, calm judgment and well-directed initiative, refraining from turbulence, rash and impulsive conduct. Quarrels and high tension may cause loss, regrets and unhappiness in business and private associations.

A child born on this day may have excellent talents and qualities for a successful life, with much creative ability and high ambitions. But an impetuous, indulgent and reckless nature may be the cause of many regrets in business and private life.

Wings of Youth

By HELEN WELSHIMER

SYNOPSIS
SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, finds her childhood romance has been blasted with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific, returns and falls in love with Judith. To Perryville flies
BOB KENNEDY, close friend of Jack's, receiving a broken leg in a crash at the airport.

YESTERDAY: At the hospital to visit Bob, Sarah Anne impulsively tells him he is too good for his fiancée, Bernice Cooper. Then she meets the new parsonage roomer.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"OH, HELLO," Sarah Anne said to the thin young man who was renting the parsonage guest room. His eyes were bright, mocking, oddly disturbing. "So you're the man who's going to sleep under our roof?"

"If your mother thinks I'm a good influence for youth." His voice was as provocative as his eyes.

"Aren't you afraid of what we may do to you? This is a parsonage and we insist on church attendance."

"And I am a minister's son and you can't show me a thing about it. By the way, I'm Lynn Rhodes. I do some writing about business conditions and I'm using your town as a focal point. You have enough factories within a radius of a couple of hundred miles to make it worth while. Besides, the Ransom steel industry is here and that's good for a lot of time."

"But you like privacy so you're shunning hotels? Mr. Rhodes, don't you know there is no privacy in a parsonage? We may even borrow your room for visiting clergy." She talked lightly not caring.

"That's all right. It's the mail, the telephone calls from the office in New York. I want to avoid. I'll pick up such small matters at Preston and live in peace." He arose suddenly as Miss Sarah Moffett came back with Mrs. Melton, and Sarah Anne slipped away. He was courteous, deferential. Even the minister's wife yielded to his charm.

The next time Sarah Anne saw him her eyes were dark with righteous indignation and her cheeks were flushed. It was ten o'clock in the morning. She alone was at home. She had bound back her brown curls with a red ribbon and she was wearing an old white tennis frock, for she had been working in the garden at the rear of the parsonage. A small creek meandered leisurely under the trees, back there, and she had a tea table, a few chairs and a shelf built against a tree, where the yard dropped suddenly to meet the little brook. But today the peace of the scene was not affecting her in the least.

A stranger had paused and said in clear, even tones: "Miss Melton, maybe you aren't aware that the parsonage electric light bill is overdue and I've been sent to turn off the electricity."

"Overdue? It can't be!" She put down her rake. The man held out some statements.

"How much is it?" He named the sum. For a moment Sarah Anne eyed him furiously. Then she shook her head. "We can see by candlelight! If—"

She was thinking of her father's old shoes. She was wishing she hadn't spent the few dollars on that new evening frock. Ministers' daughters must not give vent to their emotions. She must not say to this impersonal man, "If the president of your company, who is a deacon in our church, would pay up his dues so my father could collect his back salary, we could meet this bill." She must not add: "We might turn off the faucet that brings him spiritual help." No, this man was just an agent.

Upstairs Sarah Anne had a few dollars, money carefully saved to take a summer course at a small university in an adjoining town. Well, she didn't need to do that. And, anyway, maybe the back salary would come. Maybe it wouldn't. Let the bill wait.

"You turn off the electricity in the attic—the third door to the right at the top of the stairs on the

"Maybe you aren't aware that the parsonage electric light bill is overdue."

Ransom as Sarah Anne was getting into the car, paused.

"Who's the lovely child?" asked Lynn Rhodes.

"My sister," Sarah Anne performed the introductions. Corinne WAS lovely. That bright gold hair was a shining nimbus, and her wide purple-blue eyes were mysterious under their black lashes. She was taller than Sarah Anne, and willowy instead of sturdy in her own slenderness. She was such a child yet, Sarah Anne thought from the vantage point of her three years' seniority. But beautiful! No wonder Bob Ransom gazed at her adoringly. Bob was a nice boy, clean-cut and sandy-haired and browned. And now this sophisticated, nonchalant man of other places was giving her the seal of his approval. That was all right. She wanted people to appreciate Corinne. But she felt that the year-old costume she wore was suddenly plain and unimportant by the side of the green checked gingham dress with its organdy collar which her sister wore.

"Your sister and I are running off for the day," Lynn Rhodes explained. "First, we're having breakfast at the Inn. Why not come along?"

"I could eat a whole omelet," Corinne answered. "Let's go with them, Bob. This man is an adjunct to our family and I really should know him. He snored under our roof last night—or don't you snore?"

Bob nodded. "I've never seen an hour I couldn't eat? Staying around long, Mr. Rhodes?" "Bob's father is one of our important interviews," Sarah Anne explained. "Ransom of Ransom Steel. You two should get acquainted."

The man's face grew grave, but the eyes held their mirth. "Good! I'm here to do some steel writing." "Sympathetic or unbiased?" Bob asked, his voice guarded.

"Unbiased, of course. I'll be making arrangements to visit your plant one of these days." Bob's face relaxed. "Excuse the guard I donned," he said. "Industrial warfare is making good bullets from words these days. The men have a case all right—a darned good one—and we're trying to work it out with them. We don't welcome any prying and neither do they. Our crew's all right."

His young voice was filled with pride. Corinne reached over to squeeze his arm. The car was staring at the driver. A short fat man with a huge panama on his big head, he stepped forward, grinning broadly. "Sweet toasted mackerel, whatever brought you here?"

CORCORAN AND MICHELSON

Tommy Corcoran, Roosevelt's famed brain truster, and Charley Michelson, the Democratic brain truster of John Raskob's day, had breakfast the other day in a Washington hotel.

Good friends personally, the two have strongly divergent political views, Corcoran believing that the Democratic Party must be progressive and virile, Michelson believing that it must travel along relatively old-fashioned lines, a policy which Corcoran believes will doom the party to defeat.

When Thyroid Gland Secretion Diminishes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A WOMAN reader writes me that she is much too heavy for her own good and energy. She eats in spurts for a week or two, and during that time she says she can't seem to get enough to eat. Then for another week she doesn't feel like eating.

She notices also that she oversleeps. "I have two alarm clocks which I never hear. I am constantly late for appointments. Unless someone awakens me violently by shaking me I sleep 12 or 14 hours."

Her third complaint is that her skin is dry and itches, for which she can find no remedy. "I went to a doctor but he didn't do me any good."

Condition Plain

As I said in answer to this correspondent, I never feel that it is satisfactory to try to make a diagnosis

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

by mail or to prescribe treatment through correspondence, but in this case it seems to me the condition is so plain that a diagnosis may be ventured. The symptoms plainly point to a deficiency in the secretion of the thyroid gland. In fact, it seems to be a full-fledged case of myxedema. There are thousands of such cases going around, and many—too many—of them consult doctors without obtaining a satisfactory opinion.

The condition seems to occur more often in women than in men—4 to 1. It comes on in middle life with an increase in weight and, particularly, a thickness of the skin. To illustrate the sleepiness, one case I saw occurred in a night watchman. He claimed he had been discharged because his employer had lost all his money. As I happened to know that his employer was particularly prosperous, I suspected that perhaps sleeping on the job was the cause of his discharge, and on telephoning the employer found that my surmise was correct.

Get Metabolism Test

What my correspondent should do is to go to a doctor and ask for a basal metabolism test. This test is simple to make and any city in the United States is in close touch with a laboratory which can give the test. It is painless and harmless.

It consists in measuring the amount of oxygen which the patient consumes. Any animal of given weight and given body surface consumes a definite amount of oxygen at rest in a definite period of time, if bodily conditions are normal. The most important organ in disturbing oxygen intake is the thyroid gland. If it begins to increase its secretion, the oxygen consumption goes up. If it begins to decrease its secretion, the oxygen consumption goes down. And it does so in proportion to the extent of the lack or increase of the secretion.

This last fact gives the physician a most valuable guide in the direction of treatment. The treatment of lack of thyroid secretion is naturally to supply it artificially with the administration of thyroid extract. But the patient should never attempt to do this for himself. The doctor, after the proper examination, can give the proper dosage.

Wings of Youth

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, finds her childhood romance has been blasted with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific, returns and falls in love with Judith. To Perryville flies BOB KENNEDY, close friend of Jack's, receiving a broken leg in a crash at the airport.

YESTERDAY: At the hospital to visit Bob, Sarah Anne impulsively tells him he is too good for his fiancée, Bernice Cooper. Then she meets the new parsonage roomer.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"OH, HELLO," Sarah Anne said to the thin young man who was renting the parsonage guest room. His eyes were bright, mocking, oddly disturbing. "So you're the man who's going to sleep under our roof?"

"If your mother thinks I'm a good influence for youth." His voice was as provocative as his eyes.

"Aren't you afraid of what we may do to you? This is a parsonage and we insist on church attendance."

"And I am a minister's son and you can't show me a thing about it. By the way, I'm Lynn Rhodes. I do some writing about business conditions and I'm using your town as a focal point. You have enough factories within a radius of a couple of hundred miles to make it worth while. Besides, the Ransom steel industry is here and that's good for a lot of time."

"But you like privacy so you're shunning hotels? Mr. Rhodes, don't you know there is no privacy in a parsonage? We may even borrow your room for visiting clergy." She talked lightly not caring.

"That's all right. It's the mail, the telephone calls from the office in New York, I want to avoid. So I'll pick up such small matters at Preston and live in peace." He arose suddenly as Miss Sarah Moffett came back with Mrs. Melton, and Sarah Anne slipped away. He was courteous, deferential. Even the minister's wife yielded to his charm.

The next time Sarah Anne saw him her eyes were dark with righteous indignation and her cheeks were flushed. It was ten o'clock in the morning. She alone was at home. She had bound back her brown curls with a red ribbon and she was wearing an old white tennis frock, for she had been working in the garden at the rear of the parsonage. A small creek meandered leisurely under the trees, back there, and she had a ten table, a few chairs and a shelf built against a tree, where the yard dropped suddenly to meet the little brook. But today the peace of the scene was not affecting her in the least.

A stranger had paused and said in clear, even tones: "Miss Melton, maybe you aren't aware that the parsonage electric light bill is overdue and I've been sent to turn off the electricity."

"Overdue? It can't be!" She put down her rake and the man held out some statements.

"How much is it?" He named the sum. For a moment Sarah Anne eyed him furiously. Then she shook her head. "We can see by candlelight! If—"

She was thinking of her father's old shoes. She was wishing she hadn't spent the few dollars on that new evening frock. Ministers' daughters must not give vent to their emotions. She must not say to this impersonal man, "If the president of your company, who is a deacon in our church, would pay up his dues so my father could collect his back salary, we could meet this bill." She must not add: "We might turn off the faucet that brings him spiritual help." No, this man was just an agent.

Upstairs Sarah Anne had a few dollars, money carefully saved to take a summer course at a small university in an adjoining town. Well, she didn't need to do that. And anyway, maybe the back salary would come. Maybe it wouldn't. Let the bill wait. Maybe it wouldn't.

"You turn off the electricity in the attic—the third door to the right at the top of the stairs on the second floor," she explained to the man.

"Oakly, sister." He started toward the house.

It was just then that Lynn Rhodes, slim and immaculate in white ducks, came from the house, spied her, and waved. He started toward her. Oh, good golly, she mused. He had to have something besides a candle. Maybe he could pay his rent in advance and that would meet this bill. She waved to him and then started after the other man.

"Hold everything," she told him. "Let there be light—I'll pay." She was breathless, flushed, annoyed when she came outside again. Lynn Rhodes grinned at her companionably.

"Bills?" he asked. "But met with an educational fund," she answered. She was aware that she looked disheveled and hot. She didn't know that the brown curls were alluring under the crimson ribbon and her slim, lithe young body, with its evenly tanned arms and legs was vital and awake.

"Suppose we get some breakfast?" the man said.

"But I ate hours ago. I've even had a swim at the lake a mile from town."

"Then you're hungry again. Come on. How about making a day of it? I have to be in Preston this afternoon. Any plans standing in the way?"

She looked back at the garden. "Just a row of radishes."

"Good! Change your dress and I'll get out the car. Meet you in twenty minutes."

Sarah Anne did not want to go with this commanding stranger. But she didn't want to stay at home. What she did now wasn't important. She was measuring time until—until what? Until Jack married Judith and she knew that he was gone forever? Until she was too old to care about love any longer? She might as well go. Maybe luxury could ease the fringes of her hurt.

But she was indifferent to her appearance as she ran the comb through her curls and patted them into a row at the nape of her neck. She found a light-weight tweed dusky pink sweater and a deeper pink jacket. There was a beret of the dubonnet, picked up for $1.79 at a bargain basement counter, and sandals that had cost little more. Ready at last, she outlined her full red lips with a darker color, picked up her bag and gloves.

The car was at the curb. It was a long, low, powerfully built affair. It dominated the little street, where an occasional family car or dilapidated jalopy stood in front of somebody's house.

Corrinne, coming along with Bob

"Maybe you aren't aware that the parsonage electric light bill is overdue."

Ransom as Sarah Anne was getting into the car, paused.

"Who's the lovely child?" asked Lynn Rhodes.

"My sister," Sarah Anne performed the introductions. Corrinne WAS lovely. That bright gold hair was a shining nimbus, and her wide purple-blue eyes were mysterious under their black lashes. She was taller than Sarah Anne, and willowy instead of sturdy in her own slowness. She was such a child yet, Sarah Anne thought from the vantage point of her three years' seniority. But beautiful! No wonder Bob Ransom gazed at her adoringly. Bob was a nice boy, clean-cut and sandy-haired and browned. And now this sophisticated, nonchalant man of other places was giving her the seal of his approval. That was all right. She wanted people to appreciate Corrinne. But she felt that the year-old costume she wore was suddenly plain and unimportant by the side of the green checked gingham dress with its organdy collar which her sister wore.

"Your sister and I are running off for the day," Lynn Rhodes explained. "First, we're having breakfast at the Inn. Why not come along?"

"I could eat a whole omelet," Corrinne answered. "Let's go with them. Bob. This man is an adjunct to our family and I really should know him. He snored under our roof last night—or don't you snore?"

Bob nodded. "I've never seen an hour I couldn't eat? Staying around long, Mr. Rhodes?"

"Bob's father is one of your important interviews," Sarah Anne explained. "Ransom of Ransom Steel. You two should get acquainted."

"The man's face grew grave, but the eyes held their mirth. 'Good! I'm here to do some steel writing.' 'Sympathetic or unbiased?' Bob asked, his voice guarded.

"Unbiased, of course. I'll be making arrangements to visit your plant one of these days."

Bob's face relaxed. "Excuse the guard I donned," he said. "Industrial warfare is making good bullets from words these days. The men have a case all right—a damned good one—and we're trying to work it out with them. We don't welcome any prying and neither do they. Our crew's all right."

His young voice was filled with pride. Corrinne reached over to squeeze his arm. The car was stopping and a man was staring at the driver. A short fat man with a huge panama on his big head. He stepped forward, grinning broadly. "Sweet toasted mackerel, whatever brought you here?"

Williamsport Club Has Initiation, Book Review

Wardell Home Near Village Scene Of Meeting

Mrs. George Hamman, Jr., presented an interesting review of the novel, "Grandma Calls it Carmel", by Bertha Dayman at the June meeting of the Sorosis club, Monday, in the country home of Mrs. Russell Wardell, near Williamsport.

The novel deals with the experiences of Bertha Dayman and her sister Alice, who lived with their grandmother Griswold after the death of their mother. She was a great reformer, very strict in her ideas and objectives of life. Her physician in filling out her death report after she died at the age of 96 said that she had just stopped living. Mrs. Hamman held the close attention of the assemblage throughout her talk.

Thirty members and eight guests attended the session. Mrs. Howard Nessel, vice president, presided during the business hour, in the absence of Miss Laura McGhee, president. Guests for the occasion included Mrs. Byron Carman, Lexington; Mrs. Thomas McKinley, Darbyville; Mrs. Marilyn Cronenwett, Edison; Mrs. Archie Rawlinson, Mrs. Essie Ater, Miss Mary Martha Hamman, Jean Rose and Rose Evelyn Wardell. Miss Carolyn Bochar, secretary, and Mrs. Ansel Dreisbach, treasurer, read their monthly reports.

Initiation services were held for members who have joined the club since the first of the year. After Mrs. Hamman's book review, Mrs. Paul Rose played a piano solo, "Orsa Grande Polka". She also accompanied Mary Martha Hamman when she played two clarinet solos, "Whispering Hope" and "Mighty Lak a Rose". Rose Evelyn Wardell pleased the group with a marimba solo, "Nola".

A true or false contest on etiquette by Emily Post was conducted by Mrs. Hamman, closing the program. During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Nessel, Mrs. Donald Kempton and Miss Ruth Ater, served lunch.

Monday, July 17, the members of the club and their families will have a picnic meeting at the home of Miss Carolyn Bochar, near Williamsport.

Club Social Session

Miss Charlotte Bell was a guest Monday when one of the Circleville bridge clubs held its social session at Sylvia's party home. Twelve gathered around a long table set in the dining room for the dinner served at 6:30 p. m. Purple and white garden flowers formed the lovely centerpiece.

Contract bridge was played during the later hours of the evening, with Mrs. Lester Coate and Miss Nellie Anderson receiving the favors.

Mrs. Walter Nelson will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Washington P.-T. A. Meets

Approximately 60 interested persons attended the special meeting of Washington township Parent-Teacher association, Monday, in the school when the high school charter problem was discussed.

Howard Huston, president, was in charge of the meeting and presented John Florence, school superintendent, who gave the report of the committee which had visited the State Department of Education in Columbus.

After an hour of discussion, music by the Rhymer family orchestra of the Stoutsville community was enjoyed. Earl Palm sang one solo followed by an Ask-it-Basket contest. The women's team included Mrs. Harry Rife, captain, Miss Edith Spangler, Mrs. Wilson Dunkel, Miss Margaret Goode and Mrs. Russell Palm. Mr. Huston captained the men's team, which included D. A. Marshall, Wilson Dunkel, A. W. Bosworth, and John Florence. The men's team won.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. M. M. Bowman and her committee.

Williamsport Club Has Initiation, Book Review

Wardell Home Near Village Scene Of Meeting

Mrs. George Hamman, Jr., presented an interesting review of the novel, "Grandma Calls it Carmel", by Bertha Dayman at the June meeting of the Sorosis club, Monday, in the country home of Mrs. Russell Wardell, near Williamsport.

The novel deals with the experiences of Bertha Dayman and her sister Alice, who lived with their Grandmother Griswold after the death of their mother. She was a great reformer, very strict in her ideas and objectives of life. Her physician in filling out her death report after she died at the age of 96 said that she had just stopped living. Mrs. Hamman held the close attention of the assemblage throughout her talk.

Thirty members and eight guests attended the session. Mrs. Howard Nessel, vice president, presided during the business hour, in the absence of Miss Laura McGhee, president. Guests for the occasion included Mrs. Byron Carmean, Lexington; Mrs. Thomas McKinley, Darbyville; Mrs. Marilyn Cronenwett, Edison; Mrs. Archie Rawlinson, Mrs. Essie Ater, Miss Mary Martha Hamman, Jean Rose and Rose Evelyn Wardell.

Miss Carolyn Bochar, secretary, and Mrs. Ansel Dreisbach, treasurer, read their monthly reports. Initiation services were held for members who have joined the club since the first of the year. After Mrs. Hamman's book review, Mrs. Paul Rose played a piano solo, "Orsa Grande Polka". She also accompanied Mary Martha Hamman when she played two clarinet solos, "Whispering Hope" and "Mighty Lak a Rose". Rose Evelyn Wardell pleased the group with a marimba solo, "Nola".

A true or false contest on etiquette by Emily Post was conducted by Mrs. Hamman, closing the program. During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Nessel, Mrs. Donald Kempton and Miss Ruth Ater, served lunch.

Monday, July 17, the members of the club and their families will have a picnic meeting at the home of Miss Carolyn Bochar, near Williamsport.

Club Social Session
Miss Charlotte Bell was a guest Monday when one of the Circleville bridge clubs held its social session at Sylvia's party home. Twelve gathered around a long table set in the dining room for the dinner served at 6:30 p. m. Purple and white garden flowers formed the lovely centerpiece.

Contract bridge was played during the later hours of the evening, with Mrs. Lester Coate and Miss Nelle Anderson receiving the favors.

Mrs. Walter Nelson will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Washington P-T-A Meets
Approximately 60 interested persons attended the special meeting of Washington township Parent-Teacher association, Monday, in the school when the high school charter problem was discussed.

Howard Huston, president, was in charge of the meeting and presented John Florence, school superintendent, who gave the report of the committee which had visited the State Department of Education in Columbus.

After an hour of discussion, music by the Rhymer family orchestra of the Stoutsville community was enjoyed. Earl Palm sang one solo followed by an Ask-it-Basket contest. The women's team included Mrs. Harry Rife, captain, Miss Edith Spangler, Mrs. Wilson Dunkel, Miss Margaret Goode and Mrs. Russell Palm. Mrs. Huston captained the men's team, which included D. A. Marshall, Wilton Dunkel, A. W. Bosworth, and John Florence. The men's team won.

Refresments were served by Mrs. M. M. Bowman and her committee.

Seimer Family Reunion
The 15th annual reunion of the Seimer family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce, Pickaway township. Among the guests were Marley Seimer, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Leist, Mr. and

LOU GEHRIG TO FLY EAST TO REPORT HIS HEALTH

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 20—Lou Gehrig was New York bound today to report to the New York Yankees on the findings of a clinical examination he underwent at the Mayo brothers clinic here. The famous first sacker of the baseball world champions, who benched himself a few weeks ago when he felt his playing was not up to snuff, entered the clinic last week to see whether an examination would reveal if any physical disability caused his falling off in playing form. The examination was concluded last night but at Gehrig's request the findings were withheld. "I think it is only right," the ball player explained, "that I report the findings to the Yankee front office myself."

CHURCH BELLS RING IN FIGHT AGAINST BETTING

TRENTON, N. J., June 20—While church bells tolled a reminder to vote "no" and politicians made their last minute harangues, New Jersey voters today cast their ballots on a controversial constitutional amendment which would legalize pari-mutual betting at horse races. Only about 500,000 or 600,000 of the state's 1,500,000 voters were expected to participate in the referendum despite the strenuous efforts made by both sides to get out the vote. Proponents of the amendment which would permit building of race tracks counted heavily for victory on the usually large majorities rolled up by the political organization of Mayor Frank J. Hague of Jersey City. Hague, a Democrat, teamed with former Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, Republican, is leading the fight for adoption of the amendment.

FLORENCE EVANS, FAMOUS AS WOMAN BANKER, DIES

UHRICHVILLE, June 20—Funeral services were to be held this afternoon for Mrs. Florence D. Evans, 86, who for many years was Ohio's only woman bank president. She died from complications resulting from a broken hip suffered in a fall. Her late husband, T. J. Evans, Sr., was founder of the Evans Pipe Co., now headed by her son, T. J. Evans, Jr. Mrs. Evans was president of the now defunct Commercial Bank and had large real estate holdings. She remained active in financial affairs until she suffered the injury which led to her death.

Jacobs Seeks Donovan, Warns Galento Tough

By Hype Igoe

NEW YORK, June 20—Joe Jacobs, who has piloted the fantastic Signor Galento into a world's championship shot with the eminently capable Mister Joe Louis, will go before the boxing commission and ask that Arthur Donovan be appointed to referee the title bout between Joe and Tony on June 28.

Donovan has acted as arbiter in every bout in which Louis has appeared in New York City. Because of that fact, Galento's friends have urged that some other man be named as referee. Jacobs has his own ideas about the matter.

"If I objected to Donovan, they would put him in anyway, so what's the sense of balking about Donovan being named? I want him in there for a real reason. He has refereed two of Tony's fights and he is one man who will not hamper Tony. We all know that Galento is not a pink tea performer. He's rough and ready and he loves to fight that way," said Jacobs today.

"I warn you now that when Tony's first left hook explodes on Joe Louis' chin you're going to see the most confused champion of the world you ever laid your eyes on. Louis is working for Galento's body, is shaping up for a body attack. What does he expect Tony will be doing? You can hit Galento in the stomach with a baseball bat and he'll laugh at you. I promise you that if Louis goes reaching down for Tony's middle, Galento will upset him with a left hook to the jaw. People were shocked when Schmeling knocked out the unbeatable Louis. I knew how to advise Schmeling on the best way to whip Louis then. I know how to guide Galento to victory now."

FLOOD WATERS INUNDATE COUNTY LOWLANDS, COVER SEVERAL ROADS

MORE RAINFALL FORCES SCIOTO OUT OF BANKS

Routes 104, 56 And 23 May Be Closed During Day If Rise Continues

NO DETOURS NEEDED YET

Another Quarter Of Inch Added To Precipitation In County Area

Thousands of acres of Pickaway county lowlands were inundated Tuesday, and highways closed as flood waters from the north moved into this district through the Scioto river and its tributaries.

The Mackey Ford road in the northern section of Pickaway county was closed Monday night by flood waters of the Scioto river. It remained closed Tuesday. Route 104 at Dewey Park and the Canal road, extending from Route 22 to Westfall, were flooded Tuesday and indications were they would be closed during the day. Rural folk west of the city believed Route 56, near Route 22, may be closed because of flood waters from the river. Water was across Route 23 in Franklin county near St. Joseph's cemetery, but no detour was necessary Tuesday morning.

The Scioto river went out of bank at Circleville about noon Monday and continued rising Monday afternoon and night. It was still rising Tuesday morning.

Heavy rains north of Circleville during the weekend are responsible for the flood waters. Although the crest of the Scioto river flood was expected Monday afternoon, additional rains boosted the stream throughout the night. Rainfall in Circleville in the 24 hours prior to 8 a. m. Tuesday amounted to a quarter of an inch.

Employees of the state highway department and the county engineer's office reported no damages to roads or structures as a result of the flood has been reported.

Many farmers are concerned about their crops flooded in the lowlands.

ESMERALDA CO. RESUMES ITS PACK OF SPINACH

The Esmeralda Canning Co. will resume packing spinach Wednesday. The first pack was completed about 10 days ago. The final pack is expected to be completed in a few days. The pack will furnish employment to about 100 persons in the field and at the factory.

Volcano Throws Rock Into Air; Fear Expressed That Land May Sink In Sea

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, June 20—Lest their island sink into the sea or become engulfed by lava, hundreds of inhabitants of the island of Krakatoe, between Sumatra and Java, today made ready to flee as a volcano threw molten rock thousands of feet into the air.

Thirty-six thousand persons died in an eruption and subsequent tidal wave in 1833, and what was then Krakatoe sank while other islands appeared. The last eruption occurred three years ago, and another island in the group disappeared.

"This will be a real field day for all Democrats. There is no need to speculate on who or what is behind this meeting. It is sponsored by a united party which is preparing early for a sweeping victory in 1940. All potential candidates for all state offices will be cordially welcomed and given every opportunity to mingle with their friends.

"The many failures of the Bricker administration make it certain now that a Democrat will be returned to the Governor's office next year. The new Governor will be in the vast crowd which throngs the Fairgrounds July 29th. Just who he is — I haven't the slightest idea. But he will be there and thousands of loyal and enthusiastic Democrats will be with him."

The day's festivities will begin with a luncheon meeting at noon in the Desher-Wallick Hotel, Columbus. Following this reception for distinguished guests, the crowds will move to the State Fairgrounds for the afternoon and evening program. A Statesman's Village for all possible state candidates will be established on the grounds, and rank and file Democrats will be able to visit with their favorite candidates.

Those serving on the advisory committee for the big celebration are: Arthur L. Limbach, state chairman; Earl H. Hanefeld, chairman of central committee; Francis W. Poulson, former chairman; Henry G. Brunner, former chairman; Dr. Carl Watson, former chairman; Thomas Dye, former chairman; Martin L. Davey, former governor; George White, former governor and present United States senator; James M. Cox, former governor; Joseph Ferguson, state auditor; Robert J. Bulkeley, former United States senator; Charles Sawyer, national committeeman; Mildred Jaster, national committeewoman; Robert S. Hayes, treasurer of state committee; Catherine M. Carter, secretary of executive committee; Marie M. Dickson, secretary of central committee; Ann Makley, president, Federated Democratic Women of Ohio; and Oscar Loyer, president, Young Democratic League of Ohio. Walter F. Heer, is honorary chairman of the committee.

The story, which, while it is a fictional invention, is said to be an authentic representation of incidents which have happened, is concerned mainly with the efforts of some of the prisoners to escape their open-air torture chamber.

The commandant is played by James Stephenson, his wife by Nedda Harrington and his child by Rolla Gourvitch. Other important roles are filled by Adia Kuznetsoff, Robert Warrick and Pedro de Cordoba.

Why convicts condemned to Devil's Island describe their punishment as the "dry guillotine" is vividly brought out in the Warner Bros. picture entitled "Devil's Island" which is playing today and tomorrow at the Grand theatre, with Boris Karloff in the leading role.

Timely and powerful, the picture depicts with stark, unblinking realism the cruel and ruthless brutality that made this island penal colony seem an anachronism in the Twentieth Century and led finally to its being temporarily abolished less than a year ago.

N. & W. Wins Harriman Gold Medal for Safety

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 20—For the outstanding safety record among the larger Class I railroads of the United States during 1938, the Norfolk and Western Railway, for the second time within 12 years, today awarded the coveted E. H. Harriman Memorial Gold Medal, presented annually by the American Museum of Safety.

The medal, which was won in competition with 33 other Class I railroads operating 10,000,000 or more locomotive miles per year, was presented to W. J. Jenks, N. & W. president, at a luncheon at the Yale Club, which was attended by many prominent railroad and business executives. The award was made on behalf of W. A. and E. R. Harriman, sons of the late E. H. Harriman, whose wife, the late Mrs. Mary W. Harriman, founded the medal in memory of her husband. The medal was handed to Mr. Jenks by W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad.

In accepting the award on behalf of the railroad and its employees, Mr. Jenks said, "I want to recognize and express my sincere appreciation to the officers and employees of our railroad for the success of their efforts during 1938, which has brought to us today the highest honor in the field of railroad safety." He expressed confidence that "Norfolk and Western employees as well as those of other American railroads, will continue to strive for greater achievements in safety, and will carry on the proven conviction of E. H. Harriman—that good railroading is safe railroading."

FRED, ADA COOK CONTEST ORDER TO SELL GOODS

Actions to set aside a judgment for $2,046.52, taken in a cognovit note, were filed in Common Pleas court, Monday, by Fred and Ada M. Cook, Walnut township, against the Second National Bank of Circleville.

Mr. Cook's petition says the judgment was taken for a larger amount than due and he was not legally notified of the time and place of taking the judgment. Mrs. Cook's petition says that her signature on the note was "obtained by duress of plaintiff with foreclosure proceedings against her husband." It further contends she was not legally notified of the time and place of taking judgment. She says an execution has been issued on personal property. She asks a restraining order preventing a sale be granted.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Said to be entertainment of a high order, Columbia's "Outside These Walls" opens next Friday at the Cliftona Theatre with Michael Whalen, Dolores Costello and Virginia Weidler in the featured roles. A picture the whole family is likely to enjoy, "Outside These Walls" has been hailed for its simple, human qualities, as well as its swift-moving drama of a man's uphill fight for redemption.

Whalen, never seen to better advantage, is a brilliant, crusading journalist, but—unfortunately—a man with a prison record, earned after he had embezzled to meet the demands of an extravagant wife. He plunges into the fury of a political campaign, with the opposing newspaper owned by Miss Costello.

Little Miss Weidler sustains her high status in one of the most difficult roles she has ever played. She is Whalen's daughter, estranged from her father, who finds her destiny interwoven with his when he starts his climb toward rehabilitation. Comedy, drama, romance and thrills are intermingled.

The excellent supporting cast includes such artists as Don Beddoe, Robert Emmett Keane, Selmer Jackson, Dick Curtis, Pierre Watkin, John Tyrell and Tommy Bupp.

N. & W. Wins Harriman Gold Medal for Safety

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 20—For the outstanding safety record among the larger Class I railroads of the United States during 1938, the Norfolk and Western Railway, for the second time within 12 years, today awarded the coveted E. H. Harriman Memorial Gold Medal, presented annually by the American Museum of Safety.

The medal, which was won in competition with 33 other Class I railroads operating 10,000,000 or more locomotive miles per year, was presented to W. J. Jenks, N. & W. president, at a luncheon at the Yale Club, which was attended by many prominent railroad and business executives. The award was made on behalf of W. A. and E. R. Harriman, sons of the late E. H. Harriman, whose wife, the late Mrs. Mary W. Harriman, founded the medal in memory of her husband. The medal was handed to Mr. Jenks by W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad.

In accepting the award on behalf of the railroad and its employees, Mr. Jenks said, "I want to recognize and express my sincere appreciation to the officers and employees of our railroad for the success of their efforts during 1938, which has brought to us today the highest honor in the field of railroad safety." He expressed confidence that "Norfolk and Western employees as well as those of other American railroads, will continue to strive for greater achievements in safety, and will carry on the proven conviction of E. H. Harriman—that good railroading is safe railroading."

FRED, ADA COOK CONTEST ORDER TO SELL GOODS

Actions to set aside a judgment for $2,046.52, taken in a cognovit note, were filed in Common Pleas court, Monday, by Fred and Ada M. Cook, Walnut township, against the Second National Bank of Circleville.

Mr. Cook's petition says the judgment was taken for a larger amount than due and he was not legally notified of the time and place of taking the judgment. Mrs. Cook's petition says that her signature on the note was "obtained by duress of plaintiff in threatening plaintiff with foreclosure proceedings against her husband." It further contends she was not legally notified of the time and place of taking judgment. She says an execution has been issued on personal property. She asks a restraining order preventing a sale be granted.

An authentic representation of incidents which have happened, is concerned mainly with the efforts of some of the prisoners to escape their open-air torture chamber.

The commandant is played by James Stephenson, his wife by Nedda Harrington and his child by Rolla Gourevitch. Other important roles are filled by Adia Kuznetzoff, Robert Warrick and Pedro de Cordoba.
